

HARRISON TAKEN ON FRAUD CHARGE

Wealthy Manufacturing President Arrested in Ohio.

MAILS USED TO DEFRAUD PUBLIC

Many Prominent Persons Complain That "Vacuum Carpet Cleaner" Is Not as Good as It Is Represented to Be by Ads.

Cincinnati, Dec. 9.—Warrants charging William P. Harrison, president of the World Manufacturing company, which controls three subsidiary companies, and Bruce Chorpensing, secretary, with using the mails to further a scheme to defraud were sworn out by Postoffice Inspector Griswold, Harrison is reputed to be a millionaire.

The affidavit filed by Griswold names the H. Armstrong company, one of the subsidiary companies which manufactures a vacuum carpet cleaner. Complaints have been received from housewives, according to Postoffice Inspector Rathbone, declaring the cleaner is not as good an article as it is represented to be. Complaints received from Gov. Harrison, Senator Curtis of Kansas, several congressmen, Mayor Schuch, County Prosecutor Hunt and Chief of Police Jackson are in possession of Postoffice Inspector Rathbone. The letters from Harrison, Senator Curtis and the congressmen were sent them by consultants.

"We say the cleaner is what it is advertised to be," said Harrison. "That is all I care to say at this time." The cleaners cost $8.50 a piece, the inspectors say, and they assert that they have information that shows the company has sold 37,000 of the devices this year. Harrison and Chorpensing were arrested and later released on bonds of $2,500 by United States Commissioner Adler.

CHAINS WIFE TO WALL

Brutal Treatment of a White Woman by Her Negro Husband.

Boston, Dec. 9.—A white woman twenty-three years old, nearly nude and fastened to a wall with a chain about her neck, her hands tied behind her back and her face and body a mass of bruises, was found in a room at 58 Middlesex street by the police when they forced their way into the home of J. H. Taylor, a negro.

When asked why the woman was so confined, Taylor, according to the police, declared it was because she would run away if he did not chain her. He was ordered to release her, and when he did so she rushed to an ice chest and joyously devoured a loaf of bread.

The woman said she was married to Taylor last September. She declared she had been chained for eight days and in that time had eaten only once.

BOSTON CLUB MAY BE SOLD

Syndicate, Headed by W. H. Russell, May Purchase Harris Interest.

New York, Dec. 9.—If $130,000 can be raised between now and some time Saturday afternoon, the Boston National League club will change ownership. This is the price asked by John T. Harris of Pittsburg, for the amount of his holdings, which, it is said, include 90 per cent of the capital stock.

The deal reached such a stage that there seems to be no doubt that it would be successfully completed before the first of next week and that the new owners, a syndicate of Boston men, headed by William H. Russell, would be introduced to the National League men at the meeting Tuesday at the Hotel Ureslin.

SALOME PRODUCED IN LONDON

Opera Given at Covent Garden Theater After Fight for Years.

London, Dec. 9.—After a battle with the censor lasting five years, Oscar Wilde and Richard Strauss' "Salome" was produced at the Covent Garden theater under Mr. Dehnam's management. It was changed, but not excessively.

The house was crowded. Hundreds waited twelve hours to secure unobtainable places. The opera was received with tremendous enthusiasm, both in regard to the music and the acting. Miss Alcega as Salome carried the audience with her, and received a storm of applause upon the conclusion of the opera.

KNIGHT SECURES LARGE FEE

Awarded $95,000 for Services as Counsel for Yerkes Estate.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—Judge Cutting in the probate court handed down a decision in which he allowed Attorney Clarence A. Knight $95,000 attorneys' fees for services he rendered while he was counsel for the Charles T. Yerkes estate and for Louis S. Owsley, executor of the estate.

The fee fixed by Judge Cutting was much less than that recommended by Grayville W. Irving, who recommended that Mr. Knight be allowed $250,000.

Other Relatives Also Generously Remembered in Will of Wealthy Steel Car Spring Manufacturer.

New York, Dec. 9.—The will of Julius E. French, a steel car spring manufacturer, who died Dec. 2, was filed for probate here. The only next of kin is Mildred French Devoreaux of North Randall, O., who gets all the pictures, bronzes, statues, jewelry, horses, dogs and other animals. She also gets the income of a trust fund of $1,000,000, half of which goes on her death to her son Julian, and half to her daughter, Alleen.

The testator's sister, Julia F. Boyce, gets $100,000 and the grandson and granddaughter also get that sum. The son-in-law, Harry K. Devoreaux, receives $50,000 and two nieces, Ann O. Jennings and Nancy Boyce Van Gorder, get $50,000 each.

A sister, Adella Baldwin, inherits $25,000, as do a sister-in-law, Katherine S. McKimble, and two grand-nephews, Julius F. James and Edmund James. The daughter and her children get the residue.

PLANS PROGRESSING FOR POULTRY SHOW

Premium List Will Be Issued Next Week for Exhibition to Be Held January 16 to 21.

That the Janesville Poultry Show and Poultry Association will have one of the largest and best poultry shows ever given in the state is assured by Wm. McVicar, president of the organization. Over two thousand birds coming from all over Wisconsin and Illinois and also from Michigan will be on exhibition at the rink Jan. 16 to 21, 1911. Premium lists will be ready next week and the amount of prize money will total a larger sum than ever before offered by the association. The prizes include both cash and merchandise premiums, the total amount of which will depend on the number of competitors and the various classes represented. The new coops which were ordered some time ago, will be completed next week and will afford the most up-to-date accommodations for show purposes. J. D. Heinrich of Jackson, Ill., one of the most noted poultry experts in the country, has been secured to act as judge at the local show. Mr. Heinrich has judged poultry all over the middle west and has given entire satisfaction in all cases.

Too Trivial for Uncle Sam.

Uncle Sam does not deal in small figures. According to the controller of the treasury a bill of 65 cents is too trivial a matter for the government to consider. Such a decision was made by the controller in the case of George W. Lambert, a discharged private of the Twenty-sixth U. S. On his discharge from the army in 1904, Lambert claimed the government was short 65 cents in his pay. The claim was disallowed on the ground that, in accordance with the established practice of the government, the amount is too small to warrant a settlement.

To Bed to Cure.

The old Vienna doctor whom King Edward last visited complains that he was an obstreperous and unmanageable patient; that he could not be kept abed. Now, this was only another way of confessing that the last and best treatment that the medical profession knows could not be used in the case of the king. In other words, the vaunted medical profession, with all its latter day science, could do no more than an old grandmother and housewife, and put the king to bed and give him a little broth of whey, says a writer in the New York Mail. Few people realize that for most diseases the bed and it alone is the greatest, surest, quickest cure the world and ages of science have yet discovered or bestowed. People as a rule look upon going to bed for sickness as a necessary and unavoidable consequence of sickness instead of looking upon it as they should, as being the very first and greatest part of the cure of the case.

RAPID TRANSIT.
A New York paper gives the following interesting account of a silk shipment received in that city Wednesday morning.

"Until the storm interfered with the working of a schedule drawn up for it, a train load of silk delivered in New York early yesterday morning by the Erie railroad established a new fast record for a movement of freight from coast to coast.

"Every few weeks a cargo of silk from the Orient intended for the New York market is landed at Seattle. The value of the silk is so great that the interest and insurance during the time it would take to reach this city in the ordinary course of a freight shipment would amount to upward of $3,000. Market conditions frequently furnish another reason for making the greatest speed possible in getting the consignment into the owners' hands.

"For these reasons several train-loads have been brought east on passenger train schedules. The business has developed extreme competition among the various roads, which has stimulated the successful bidders for the business to sacrifice all immediate profit on the shipments in order to benefit by the advertisement of their fast service. One load was wrecked almost at the end of its journey some months ago because of the anxiety of a New York Central engineer to maintain his schedule.

"This latest shipment consists of seven carloads valued at $1,250,000. The silk was rushed from the steamship at Seattle and put on Great Northern cars for what developed in to a record run to Minneapolis. It was delivered to the Burlington there at the end of 57 hours, 15 minutes, breaking the previous record for that run by five minutes.

"The Burlington made better time than its fastest passenger train, and delivered the silk in Chicago in 1 hour and 30 minutes less time than it would have gone by express on the fastest passenger train. The Erie coupled its locomotive on and started the cargo on its last stretch of the 3,000 mile journey at 9:37, Chicago time, Monday night.

"The Erie had planned to cover the remaining 1,000 miles in about 28 hours, or on the regular passenger schedule. This would have made it possible to deliver the silk in Jersey City at a little before 1 a. m. today. As the train approached New York it ran into the snow and had to slacken speed, but it is probable that the time for the entire trip was nonetheless shorter by hours than that for any previous transcontinental shipment.

"The Erie delivered the trainload in Jersey City at 6:20, Wednesday morning, having lost several hours on the schedule laid out for the train, when it ran into the heavy snowstorm. The delay hurt the record, which was being lowered, but made no material difference to the owners of the freight, as they were able to get it from the cars the first thing Wednesday morning. The shipment got ahead of the accompanying bill of lading.

"The silk pays only first-class rates and the cost of moving it on passenger schedules or better is so great as to more than extinguish any profit on the business. But as a feat of railroading it is remarkable and the roads competing for the traffic evidently consider the advertisement worth the effort. In the Erie's case, for example, it shows that expenditures of millions in the past few years on improving the line by taking out curves and lowering grades has accomplished its object."

PENSION FRAUDS.

The "World's Work" is publishing a series of articles by William Byard Hale on pensions and pensioners, and while it is never popular to criticize the pension bureau, many people of the present generation are at a loss to understand why the fund continues to maintain its volume.

"That fraud and imposition has something to do with it is evidenced by the following case which is one of a number unearthed by Mr. Hale.

"A man named William Newby, of White County, Illinois, was killed at Shiloh, April 6, 1862, and was buried on the battlefield by his comrades. So the records of the war department attest. His widow moved from Illinois to Texas, and his family had grown up and scattered by the year 1891, when a stranger walked into the streets of the Texas town and announced himself as William Newby. His story was that a wound on the head had made him insane, that he had wandered, and had only lately regained memory of his identity. The widow Newby was sent for, and after a little talk declared that this was her missing husband. Now Mrs. Newby had for thirty years been pensioned as a veteran's widow. The restored "Newby" immediately applied for a pension. His stake was a large one, his claim being $15,000.

"It was so large, in fact, that the pension bureau thought it wise to put a special agent on the case. It was discovered that the new "Newby" eyes wore of the wrong color, and that he was twenty years younger than he should have been. Further investigation proved the impostor to be a character known as "Hickory Dan" Benton, who had lived in White County, Illinois as a boy, but had never been in the army, although he had been in poor houses and jails. But the conspirators and their friends were not going to lose that $15,000 without a struggle. A Newby League was formed, and expert counsel engaged for the impostor. At the trial before the United States court of Springfield, Ill., one hundred and forty witnesses, including the widow and one son, testified in behalf of the pretended Newby. The government produced sixty witnesses, including "Newby's" daughter and brother, who repudiated him and told of marks not shown on the defendant's body.

"The man was convicted. His claim would probably have been allowed without thought of investigation by previous administrations of the pension office."

Recent statistics show that American represents but 11 per cent of the world's wool clip and that a long era of protection has failed to stimulate the industry. This fact will doubtless be recognized by congress in discussing the woolen schedule. The tariff on wool effects all kinds of woolen goods and is estimated to add $1.00 to the cost of a business suit. Some infants are scarcely worth protecting, and wool seems to be one of them.

The promised passenger rate war between Chicago and New York has been called off and the old rate of from $20 up will be maintained. Mr. Pullman has decided to furnish sleeping accommodations upstairs at half a dollar a night discount but this does not apply to rates between the two great cities. The colored brother will continue to collect his salary from the traveling public.

Just why any member of congress should oppose a permanent tariff commission is difficult to understand. The work is important enough to command the time of the best expert talent that can be secured, and too important to entrust to a body of men who can not treat the question intelligently, because of local interests which create prejudice. Congress is too large an aggregation to deal with the tariff.

In the death of Senator James H. Stout the state has lost a philanthropist and a most public spirited citizen. The little city of Menominee, which has long been his home, enjoyed his benefactions, and the schools which he established and maintained, enjoy a wide reputation. Mr. Stout was a large hearted man and his kindly disposition won for him a host of friends.

Captain Sea Puzzles Scientists.

No one can tell what is happening in the Caspian sea. For years past its waters have been falling, and it has been supposed that the great inland sea was gradually drying up. Recent soundings revealed the astonishing fact that the Caspian is at present actually deeper than it was a century ago. There is only one possible hypothesis. The bottom of the sea must be dropping out.

Uses of Romance.

I believe with all my soul in romance; that is, in a certain high-minded, eager dealing with life. I think that one ought to expect to find things beautiful and people interesting, not to take delight in detecting meanesses and failures.—Henson.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER
By WALT MASON.

(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)

I like the man who digs a grave and plants his neighbors in his garden, who gaily kills them with an axe, and doesn't even ask their pardon.

I knew a perfect gentleman who took a gun and killed his cousin; a much beloved old friend of mine once ran amuck and slew a dozen. A man may do as Crippen did, and slay a lady in a cellar, and still deserve our confidence as being quite a decent fellow. I read the murder yarns each day appearing in the daily papers; there always is some good excuse for all these homicidal capers. When gentlemen take knives or guns and butcher citizens around them, you may be sure that things conspired to bullyrag them and condemn them. But O, those cold and cunning knaves, who do their murdering for money! Who do the deed, the people out and take in wealth and think it funny! For them the pillory should stand, for them the lash should whistle! Their souls are built of boiler iron—what hearts they have are made of gristle!

ONLY A DOG STORY

This is a true story about Tommy and his pup, mostly about the pup. The pup was Tommy's understudy. When Tommy was glad the pup rejoiced as to his tail. When Tommy was sad it was mournful to note the dejected look of the pup. In disposition they were twins. Tommy and the pup; in every expedition comrades.

All the rare friendship of a boy and a dog! But a capricious fate separated the pup from the boy forever. Tommy disappears from the chronicle. Remains the pup.

A lost dog. Dejected, drooping, obsequious, tall furred and fearful, this pup's very manner invited the small boy's hurried beck and his thin with pebbles in it.

"Come along a boy. This pup brightens perceptibly. Something of the old selfhood shows in him. He sniffs at the boy's heels. The boy kicks at the outset, who darts dodges. The dog is a parish—all the world against one common, enery, disheartened yellow pup.

But the moods of a dog are not long moods. A diversion appears. A street arab rolls a ball along the sidewalk toward another arab. "Hi," says the pup to himself, "here's something worth while." With dauntless tail he bounds after the ball. Every drop of his sporty dog blood is a-tingle.

The arab beats the dog in the race for the ball and rolls it back. In a jiffy the pup whisks and goes for it. This is a touch of high life. He is no longer a thing of the gutter—nobody's dog. He is dog full of joy. The children of the school near by are let loose. They stream down the street. The pup leaves off leaping in great curves after the ball and leaps up to the children. He would lick their faces in high friendship. One of the midges is frightened, and then the cry goes up: "Mad dog! Mad dog!" The children flee. The pup barks and jumps after them in great glee. What fun for a yellow pup! How nice of the children to scamper so and scream with delight! Bang! The policeman's wicked gun cracks, and Tommy's pup is of no more use in this world—as a pup.

The moral of this tale? Oh, any old thing—the lesson of poor dog Tray, or a life misunderstood, or the sting of ingratitude, or the joyous soul of a good woman ruled by a mad dog cry, or any or all of these or others.

This is only a dog story.

Ordinarily, people fear to send their soiled laces to cleaners. So rare and beautiful laces remain unused and unenjoyed. One can hardly blame them for not wanting to send them to some cleaners.

We base these facts on what our customers have told us. So we set to work to perfect a method to skillfully clean lace. And we succeeded. We ask you to find out for yourself by giving us a trial order.

STRONG COMPANY IN WESTERN DRAMA

Able Cast Presented "The Squaw Man" at the Myers Theatre Last Evening.

One of the best western dramas ever played on the American stage was presented at the Myers theatre yesterday afternoon and evening by a very able company. "The Squaw Man," by Edwin Milton Royle, portrays with remarkable vividness the life on the plains in the days of the cattle kings. The plot centers around the life and experiences of Jim Carston, the self-exiled Englishman, who came to the western country to save his friend's husband from disgrace, and who subsequently became beloved by all who were intimate with him although a squaw man. This part was ably taken by J. C. Livingston; other parts which were well acted were those of Bill, foreman of Carston's ranch, by Frederick Monloy; and Lady Diana, by Edna Marshall.

Many of the scenes are tragic with elements of pathos, but they are entirely free from the blood and thunder which is a fault often found with such plays. The audience yesterday were not as large as would be expected with such an acceptable attraction.

Family Feud Results in Battle on Farm With Fatal Results.

Springfield, O., Dec. 9.—As the result of a family feud, Homer Dillon, 16, was killed in a battle, his father Henry Dillon is dying of his wound, while William Dillon, 50, and his son Clifford, 25, are wounded, William Clifford and Ralph and Thomas Dillon are under arrest charged with the murder.

Dillard, tenant, sublet part of a farm to the Dillons. A dispute over the corn crop division, caused a feud and the Dillons were driven from the farm. An effort on the part of the older Dillon to cross the farm as a short cut, started the fatal battle.

MILLIONS SAVED TO GOVERNMENT

Result of Pruning in the Executive Offices.

MACVEAGH'S ANNUAL REPORT

Plan for the Payment of 1 Per Cent a Year on the National Debt—Currency Reform and Other Matters of Interest.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Currency reform, extension of the scope of the national banking laws, in the event of an immediate general changes in the monetary system; civil service reforms, a customs service free from "practical" politics; businesslike methods in the daily transactions of the government and a general abolition of red tape wherever it clogs the wheels of the government's business are among the recommendations contained in the annual report of Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury, presented to congress.

The expenses of government in the fiscal year 1912, for which this session of congress is asked to appropriate, are estimated at $630,404,013. The estimated expenditures of the Panama canal are given as $56,920,817, making a total of $687,324,830.

The estimates, if carried out, represent net savings of about $18,000,000 in the executive departments as compared with the appropriations for the current fiscal year.

While the secretary's report estimates the total expenses of the government at $687,324,830, the estimates which have been transmitted to congress ask for $748,414,860, a difference of $61,090,030. Congress is asked to appropriate this extra $61,090,030 to make the sinking fund law effective. It would be an appropriation to permit the treasury to begin applying 1 per cent a year to the discharge of the national debt. The law authorizing such a procedure has been a dead letter for some time, as congress has never appropriated any money.

Receipts for 1912, Secretary MacVeagh estimates, will be $680,000,000, which would leave an ordinary surplus of a round $50,000,000. If the treasury should continue to pay for the Panama canal out of the cash drawer as at present, such a surplus would be turned to a deficit of $7,414,860.

Secretary MacVeagh expresses the hope that the monetary question will come into congress detached from sectional or political considerations.

The recommendation that the treasury be authorized to issue gold certificates against gold bullion and foreign gold coin is renewed.

Reviewing the discovery of frauds and the subsequent reorganization of the customs service, Secretary MacVeagh urges appropriations for rewards for those who aided the government.

WIDER MAKES CONFESSION

Cashier of Russo-Chinese Bank Who Stole $680,000 Admits Guilt.

New York, Dec. 9.—Erwin J. Wider, who, while cashier of the Russo-Chinese bank, stole $680,000, is busy dictating a full confession to a stenographer in the office of District Attorney Whitman.

The confession is not completed and Mr. Whitman said that he was not at liberty to disclose anything. There will be another session at the stenographer's Saturday. After that it is likely that the public will know the contents of the confessions.

"ANGEL" OF GETTYSBURG ILL

During the battle of Gettysburg she lived in the heart of the battle district and ministered alike to soldiers of both sides of the great conflict. For the last ten days Mrs. Taylor has been unconscious.

COMMON SENSE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.

Rheumatism has for ages been a puzzle to the doctors. Some claim it to be an infection, a germ disease. Others claim that the cause is uric acid, a kidney disease. It is said that uric acid is carried by the blood into the small arteries of the joints and skin where it crystallizes and it is the small, sharp crystals that cause intense pain with every motion of the body by cutting into the flesh and nerves. Whatever the cause, the best relief known is an Alkaline Effleur of the Sallaylites. The chemical nature of the Sallaylites is to form soluble compounds with the urates. In this way these crystals are dissolved, taken up by the blood and taken out of the body by the kidneys.

This rheumatic effleur is taken in teaspoonful doses in hot water before meals. The cure is often in a day or two, yet the remedy should be taken for some time to thoroughly neutralize the blood and prevent its recurrence. The effleurations as the doctors would say, that in the kidneys and the bowels should be kept active. Rheumatic Effleur is compounded by Mr. Pioning, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, who would be pleased to give you any other information you wish. Sold at 50c. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts., the drug store that makes a specialty of drugs.

A Thought For The Holidays

The next time you are on Milwaukee street step into our salesrooms and see what opportunities are to be found here for the selection of gift offerings. Few other things are as acceptable to a music lover as a Piano or an Inner-Player Piano, because it is something not merely for temporary enjoyment but for permanent use. It becomes a possession which will be valued for years to come.

This season we are particularly well prepared to serve your needs. A number of new styles recently brought out are on exhibition ready for you to choose from—and now is none too early to see them.

The collection is complete. Every style in the genuine Mason & Hamlin, Conover, Cable, Kingsbury, Wellington and Inner-Player Pianos is on our floors and we will give you complete information about any or all of them without reference that your coming implies obligation to buy.

You will find that our prices represent actual value of the instruments and that our terms make payment so easy that the cost need hardly be considered at all.

Any instrument purchased now will be held for Christmas delivery if so desired.

Make a note that you are to visit our store on your next trip "down town."

THEATER

MY LIFE, MY OWN.
"My life is my own to do with it what I will and I'm going to do what I please."

How often that thought strikes through our minds and sometimes, half unconsciously, finds expression in our words and our actions.

Let life see, is any one's life really their own to do with it as they please? Have any of us a right to selfishly frame our habits and our thoughts to suit only ourselves, and can we do this even if we desire?

No. For every life touches the rim of some other life. Therefore, the greatest fallacy of which we can become possessed is that life is a thing of selfish individuality; that it is a personal possession, and because it is, no one has a right to make any and other successes. Percy Chapman, late feature of "A County Chairman," typewriter, and considered one of the greatest dancers in vaudeville. Clarence Mackous, the phenomenal baritone; J. E. Cogan, who made such a hit in one of the Irish roles in "The Sunny Side of Broadway," last season; Grace Manlove, Alice Sher, Johnny Gilmore and Jessie Maker, all with the original company. Besides, this superb cast there is a chorus of forty, noted for their beauty and voices; in fact, the size of the chorus and immense volume of their voices, necessitates an augmented orchestra of fourteen pieces.

The music is far beyond comparison with any similar production and is rendered by artists that make it it among the buyers of popular music, and the royalties on this song alone will net Mr. Foulk, the author, this season, enough to buy himself a summer home. It is said, those who like beautiful stage pictures, novel electrical music of recent years, should not miss the opportunity of witnessing "A Winning Miss" and Max Bloom. The management is for one night, Tuesday Dec. 13th at Myers Theatre, and the indications point to a capacity house.

As an illustration of almost everything one might encounter on a journey around the world, Lynn H. Howe's new program for the Myers Theatre, Tuesday Dec. 27th, matinee and evening, promises to surpass all expectations. As is well known, this attraction is the only one of the kind that demonstrates the wide gap between the ordinary "moving picture show" and the value of pictures of life and action when chosen intelligently, reproduced artistically, and presented perfectly in every detail. It can truly be said that no one uses the power of that lies in animated photography to such good advantage as Mr. Howe. His Travel Festival not only satisfies the love of travel but is a real uplift. One leaves the theatre with an ever broader outlook on life in general after an evening of "Travel with Howe." This is so because he believes the public prefers to be entertained by views artistic and novel rather than vulgar and sensational. As proof of the importance, novelty and originality of the features it is necessary to mention only a few of the subjects on the new program, such as: the King's funeral in London and Windsor, showing the kings, princes, field marshalls, potentates, and dignitaries in attendance from all lands including our own special ambassador, Co. Roosevelt. There will be a reproduction of the eruption of Mt. St. Helens; a ride up the Eiffel Tower; the Florida of Norway; through the Alps in winter; life on a training ship; constructing the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad; a Japanese jubilee, and many that are naturally humorous.

Make Love in Public.

One of our German correspondents writes of the great number of couples in Berlin cafes, public squares, theatres and beer houses making love to each other, kissing, etc. "This is due," says the correspondent, "that only a small portion of Berlin girls can hope to get married. The birth rate of females is considerably larger than that of males, and girl babies seem to be more hardy than boy babies. Accordingly, the Berlin woman must shift for herself in the world. There are nearly three and one-half millions of unmarried wage-earners in Germany."

Bashful.

"I hate to retire in public," said the chauffeur as he put on a quick detachable.—Harvard Lampoon.

No Release by Telegraph.

Prisoners confined in military prisons in different parts of the country cannot be released by telegraph, no matter how urgent may be the necessity for such a course. That was the custom, however, until within a short time ago. Several shrewd persons learned the form of such releases and procured the blank telegrams with the result that about a dozen prisoners were released in San Francisco on orders from the secretary of war in Washington. When the trick was discovered by war department officials, orders were issued to all persons in charge of prisoners to release no one on a telegraphic order, no matter by whom signed. Even the president cannot release a prisoner by telegraph.

Essence of Culture.

The very essence of culture is shaking off the nightmare of self-consciousness and self-absorption and attaining a sort of Christian Nirvana—lost in the great whole of humanity, thinking of others, caring for others, admiring and loving others.—E. R. Hill.

Present Duty.

He who is false to present duty breaks a thread in the loom, and will find the flaw when he may have forgotten its cause.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Clock Made of Straw.

A shoemaker named Wagner, living in Strasburg, has a clock of the grand-father shape, nearly six feet high, made entirely of straw. The wheels, pointers, case and every detail are exclusively of straw. Wagner has taken 15 years to construct this strange piece of mechanism. It keeps perfect time.

French Proverb.

An ounce of favor goes farther than an ounce of justice.

LORRAINE LESTER

claim upon even the smallest portion of it.

One's life, one's career, or whatever else one may choose to call it, is not an individual possession. As long as we live others have certain claims upon us. First comes those in the immediate circle of our families. Next, the community and the neighborhood, and, finally, our time and our generation. For every person who comes within the circle of our acquaintance is in fluenced by us—by the habits of our lives and our thoughts.

Why, even before we came into the world we were exerting an influence. Our lives were then predestined not to be our own to do with as we pleased. From the day we were born we have been exerting an influence. Until the moment our souls leave their tenements of clay, and long after, we shall still be exerting an influence.

Then how can we live to ourselves and for ourselves? How can our lives be ours to do with as we please? Ours to make glorious or hideous as we please?

If things were so ordered that any one of us stood the last individual on earth with our destiny to work out we might claim absolute possession of our lives. We might live as pleased without thought or hindrance from any quarter.

Every time a prison door swings to let in a prisoner it admits a man or woman who had been obsessed with the fallacy that life is a thing apart, that it is an individual possession to be used as one pleases. The moment, however, the prison door clicks behind them, shutting out hope and freedom and life itself, they realize that they have been chasing an idle fantasy that hung over a moral morass of murky despair.

Just the moment we begin to influence other lives we cease to belong to ourselves. As individuals in a world of individuals we may not count for much. The tiny grain of sand on the beach does not count for much compared with the sand dune, yet it is an essential part of the beach for it has a personal relationship to every other of the myriad grains washed or encased by the waves of the sea.

Just so with the individual. He may not amount to much. His commercial value may not be great. Values he may be lacking, but however humble he may be, he has a certain inalienable relationship to all other human beings.

Having once come to realize this principle of life, we begin to become of value to others. Not being absolute entities as far as our responsibility to others is concerned we can determine to make ourselves as big influences as possible in the world—to stand for something of value in the world—to become real men and women.

"A WINNING MISS."

The real musical comedy "A Winning Miss," by Boyce Winkfolk, "After the Deeds," boasts of a cast of good and to none in musical comedy. The cast is headed by Max Bloom, late star of the "Sunny Side of Broadway," and one of the funniest men on the stage today. Others in the cast are Lorraine Lester, the original Mary Jane in "Hustler Brown," the late De Van, the greatest comedienne who has created a sensation with the role of Anastasia May, Thom J. Grady, late feature of "A Country Chairman,"

WILL OF GOD IN OUR LIVES

By REV. J. W. LOVING
Pastor of Tenth Ave. Baptist Church
Houston, Texas

TEXT—For that, ye ought to say, "If the Lord will, we shall live, and do this or that."—James IV, 15.

The central thought of this chapter is that the root of all worldliness is pride, arrogance of heart towards God, and that the only remedy is to submit one's self to God, to humble one's self in the sight of God. The spirit of worldliness here takes the specific form of presumptuous confidence in the future, calculating on time to come without reference to the providence of God, as if the future were in our hands.

The writer tells us that we ought to say that if it be God's will we shall do so and so. He is pleading that God's will shall have the right of way even in our planning. One can not but recall the subject of one of Horace Bushnell's great sermons on "Every man's life a plan of God." It has not been my privilege to read that particular sermon, nor do I know just the text of it. There are three great sayings coming from three several men that will furnish our divisions for this morning's discourse.

1. Prince Albert, consort of the late Queen Victoria, used to say: "Find out the plan of God in your generation, and then beware lest you cross that plan or fail to find your own place in it." All true life has a divine plan. "It is not in man that walketh to direct his steps."

For a moment let your thoughts run back over your life. Many of us will go back to the quiet country place, far from the maddening crowd. It seemed at the time very uneventful and commonplace. Often you caught visions and grew a bit restless for a larger life. At length the time came when you started forth. Now it may not be that you have seriously longed to go back and bury yourself, as you used to say, in that retired sphere again. But have not the disappointments, disenchantments, revelations of life caused you to appreciate more highly the care-free exemptions of that earlier life?

Oh, thrice happy you were when you had others to decide for you, when it was yours just to obey them that had authority over you. Do you think it a mere accident, or even incident, that your lot was thus cast? Nay, was it not rather God's good providence, His great plan in your life? His own hand has guided you, His power kept you. He has been your shield and buckler, your defense on the right hand and on the left your reward and your all conquering leader.

Don't you believe that had you earlier recognized the good hand of your God upon you and submitted your life and all to Him your life had not only been more fruitful of good, but incomparably happier, too? Let us catch up the words of Prince Albert and try to find out the plan of God in our generation. True there is no variableness in God. He is over the same. And yet we know that the work of this generation is not just that of the Apostolic age; not just that of Luther's day. We are living in an age of unrest, of new adjustments and alignments. Men are struggling to "adapt" things. More than one man even in this land of ours are trying to evolve a new religion.

Some of the features of these new religious call on us to find God's plan, for He, His plan, all miraculous power, all authority, all restraint is eliminated. So we need to ask for the old parts, and to raise the warning voice to try to lead others into the plain, which is yet the narrow, but living way, the only way. More and more is there a call to stand for God and to illustrate in individual lives what God does in, through and with the life surrendered to Him. In the face of the widespread feeling of unrest and uncertainty, let us exhibit that rest which Jesus gives and which we find in obedience to Him by taking His yoke and learning from Him.

2. Pastor Mohod used to say, "Our work is but a segment in the great sphere of God's eternal work, and if we have eyes to see we may read in that portion of his work which belongs to us our name and the date of the present year." This is another way of saying that the work of the Christian is to do God's work, and that each worker as an individual is known to God and has a particular place in God's plan. Doesn't this give great dignity and value to our work? It must partake of the priceless value, the high quality of God himself, for it is a part of his own work which he assigned to us as individuals to do.

3. Constantine when marking out the bounds of Constantinople, being told that the city would never fall out so vast an area, replied: "I am following him who is leading me." We may not here pause to discuss the Christianity of the great emperor, save only to say that he was native and ungodly enough to adopt it as a plank in his political platform. But the point before us is submission to God's leading. Again and again follow the call of the master bid us follow him. Only God-led lives tell most for humanity. Too often with us it is not a question of knowing, so much as one of doing, the Lord's will. With many of us the trouble is that we have not felt the cost of following Jesus enough to give us the highest appreciation of him.

COMMITTED SUICIDE BY TAKING POISON

Miss Martha Wolske Whose Home Is Near Johnston, Enclosed Her Life By Taking Strichlin.

Johnstown, Dec. 9.—Miss Martha Wolske, whose home is near Johnston, committed suicide last Monday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Leland in Whitewater, where she had been employed as a domestic. She had been dependent for some time past and last Saturday she went to Ft. Atkinson to spend the day. On her return to Whitewater Saturday evening, she purchased ten grains of strichlin from one of the drug stores there on the pretense that it was to be used for killing rats. As soon as she arrived at the Leland house she went to her room and took the entire dose, after which she went to the kitchen and did her evening's work. In half an hour, the poison took effect and all efforts to save her life were futile. An unfortunate love affair is the reason given for her and demise.

The deceased was twenty-four years old and was a daughter of Mrs. Henry Wolske of Richmond. A brother, Max, of Richmond and one sister, Mrs. Henry Locke, who lives south of Janesville, also survive her. The family have a large circle of friends who sympathize with them in their bereavement. An Author's Insight.

There is no surer mark of genius than the intuitive insight into characters and social conditions which the author has no personal experience.

"What does Ben know of dulness?" asked homely old Isaac Darnell when he heard the title of his son's latest novel. Trollope wrote infinitely of bishops and dukes, when he had never been in a cathedral close in his life.

Young Darnell wrote so well about the great ones of the earth whom he had never seen that the critics banded themselves in finding "Trollope" to "Victorian Grove" and "The Young Duke."

Not Popular in Pittsburg.

Ex-Governor Pennypacker of Pennsylvania told this story recently, with reference to the graft scandals through which the state had just passed: "A minister before a hot election incidentally discussed the different candidates and concluded rather passionately with, 'God will govern Pennsylvania.' The brief silence that followed was brought to an abrupt end by an indignant individual in the last row who defiantly exclaimed in a ringing voice audible to the entire gathering: 'I'll wager twenty dollars he don't carry Pittsburg!'"

Don't Rub the Life Out of Your Clothes

Sprinkle a little GOLD DUST in the water, and let the GOLD DUST Twins do all the hard part of the task. GOLD DUST starts to dissolve and lather the moment it strikes the water; it starts to cleanse the moment it comes in contact with the garment. It instantly softens the hardest water, saves rubbing, saves wear and tear on clothes, and does most of the work without your assistance.

Use GOLD DUST next wash day, and have whiter, sweeter, cleaner clothes, with half the effort and in half the time.

Don't use Soap, Naphtha, Kerosene, Ammonia or Petroleum with Gold Dust. Gold Dust has all desirable cleaning qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work!"

JURY RETURNED A VERDICT OF $550

For Plaintiff in Damage Suit Of Mrs. Floyd Carter vs. Rockford & Interurban Ry. Co.

Shortly before six o'clock last evening the jury trying the damage suit brought by Mrs. Nellie Carter of Beloit against the Rockford & Interurban Ry. Co. returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $550. Mrs. Carter, who is the wife of Deputy Sheriff Floyd Carter, sought to recover $2,500 for a sprained ankle and other injuries sustained in stepping through defective planking in an interurban station platform at Beloit on the night of June 19, 1909. Attorneys T. D. Woodsey and M. O. Mount represented her and Attorney T. S. Nolan was counsel for the rock. In all probability the case will be taken on appeal to the supreme court.

The Diet Craze.
There seems to be a growing belief that our mental as well as our physical health depends entirely on our diet. People want to explain everything by what they eat or drink. It is a craze, and, like all crazes, it has no serious foundation. The secret of health remains what it ever has been—viz., general moderation and rational exercise.—Marcelona Gazet Medica.

Absent-Minded George Dyer.

At Clifford's Inn lived George Dyer, who lives in history chiefly as the man who walked out of Eli's house in Colbrook row and into the New river, neck deep, and had to be revived by Lamb and his sister with hot brandy. Lamb was never tired of relating the incident. Dyer, an inoffensive, absent-minded old scholar, had Leigh Hunt's friendship as well as Lamb's, and the other essayist has told how, calling on Dyer in answer to an invitation to breakfast, it was to find no butter, no knives, and no spoon on the table. Dyer was so wedded to life in the inn, that he wedded his landlady too.—London Chronicle.

Early Coins.

Certain passages in the "Iliad" of Homer would lead to the inference that coins of brass were struck as early as 1184 B. C. Tradition affirms that the Chinese had bronze coins as early as 1120 B. C. But Herodotus, "the father of history," ascribes the "invention" of coins to the Lydians, about nine centuries B. C., and there is no satisfactory evidence that coins were known prior to that date.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Gazette, Dec. 8, 1870.

Jottings.—The work of grading the court-house grounds is progressing.

The great mistake of placing the building in its present location is now evident to all, but it is too late to remedy the defect.

Mr. B. P. Cary, the treasurer-elect for Rock County, has moved into the city and taken a residence on the Milwaukee road in the Third ward.

Fred J. Stevens, formerly of this city, has gone into business at New Orleans, as proprietor of a bonded warehouse.

A massive chandelier, from the gas fitting establishment of W. E. Goodman, has been hung in the main room of the court-house. It is of burnished metal, elegantly designed, has thirty-six burners surrounded by ground glass shades, and cost the county three hundred and fifty dollars.

Many of the older residents of Janesville have watched the demolition of the half-burned wooden structure on Smith's lot, adjoining Hart's block, with considerable interest and not a little regret. It is one of the old landmarks, and was, in its earlier days, an edifice of considerable pretensions.

It was erected about thirty-one years ago by Mr. Theodore Kendall, who is still a resident of this city, and lives, we believe, in the first ward. He built it as a dwelling place for himself and family, and the land on which now stands the brick blocks of Hart, Rogers, Wheeler, Schuyler, and Story, was his garden patch. The workmen, in excavating today for the new block, dug out the half-decayed roots of an elm tree which formerly cast its shadows on the green sward about the residence of Mr. Kendall.

The excavations for M. C. Smith's new block on the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets began this morning. Mr. Smith contemplates erecting a building of forty feet front on Milwaukee street, running back on Main street to Hart's block. Mr. Smith has not fully decided on the plan of his block, but thinks it may be three stories in height with a Mansard roof. He intends fitting up a double store in the first story, the full width and depth of the block.

SAUSAGE MAKING IS ANCIENT

Industry Dates Back to the Tenth Century and Was Formerly Considered a Queen's Recreation.

Hall to the sausage! exclaims the Mobile Register. The luscious fruit of a combination of pork, spleen and meat chopper is now celebrating its one thousandth birthday. And in Austria and Germany happy folks are slinking!

We're happy and contented when wine and music flow.

For sausage was invented a thousand years ago!

It was in the tenth century that the first sausage was given to a deserving humanity, and it was not until 600 years later that Germany began introducing spices into the sausage, which immediately gave the product of that country a world-wide reputation that has never since been lost.

A few years ago a sausage exhibition was held in Switzerland and over 1,700 varieties of sausages were on view—more than half coming from Germany.

Making sausages was in the good old days of long ago a queen's recreation. A wife's ability to make good sausages counted for more than wealth and beauty combined.

To appreciate sausages one must have been born and reared "back on the farm" where dad was getting the whiter's meat ready on "butcherin'" day—such a day of days to the "bar-footed boy" on the farm!

No, you can't get those sausages at the corner butcher shop. There is only one place where you can get them, and that is "back on the farm."

ROBIN HOOD AMMUNITION

NOT MADE BY A TRUST

Here's a man from Missouri who says, "I have sold and shot your ammunition for the past three years. Am glad to recommend your shells to anyone who wants a hard-hitting, clean-shooting load; they get the game."

"IT'S ALL IN THE POWDER"

Ours is made in our own mills from a patented secret formula, and is used solely in Robin Hood Ammunition. Its force starts the instant the primer is hit, and increases as the powder ignites, creating a velocity that drives the shot with ever-increasing force through the gun barrel.

This shows that the (ever-increasing) push is all in one direction, consequently there is very little "kick" to Robin Hood Ammunition. Because the recoil or "kick" from other powders knocks you off your feet is no indication that they have superior velocity or penetrating power. The pressure wasted on your shoulder is lost motion that should be applied to force the shot.

Amazing gains in marksmanship have been made by the convert to Robin Hood Ammunition simply because it enables him to shoot where he points the gun. Our four brands of powder are:

Robin Hood Smokeless, loaded in Robin Hood and Comet Shells.

Peerless Smokeless, loaded in Clipper and Capital Shells.

Rapidite Dimes, Smokeless, loaded in Crescent and Autocrat Shells.

Eclipse, Near Smokeless, loaded in Eclipse Shells.

We also make a line of Metallic Cartridges, 22, 32, and .33 calibers, that are without equal for target and gallery practice. They are loaded with smokeless powder and are adapted to all makes of firearms using these sizes.

If you will try our ammunition you will find that it kills further—gets there quicker—hits harder—and kicks less than any other ammunition. Buy it from any of the dealers whose names appear below. If that is inconvenient, write us and we will see that you are supplied.

Write for our catalog, anyway.

Remember, we are the only ammunition manufacturers in America that manufacture smokeless powder and load the products of our own mills.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company. Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company

She tore off the brown paper with a dramatic gesture and triumphantly displayed the suit of tweed clothing which Loveland had taken off the evening before in dressing for dinner. Then her face fell as she saw that his expression was displeased.

"I thought you'd like these better than anything, as I couldn't run to all," the girl went on disappointedly. "You paid my hotel bill!" exclaimed Loveland.

"Only a little, weeny part," Isadora broke in. "What I could have done more."

"I don't," said Val hastily. "Oh, you're very kind—too kind. I don't know what to say. But—your money, that you were saving—why, I—Jove, it's horrible. And I—maybe I'm not able to pay you back for days."

"I don't want you to pay me back," the girl said proudly. "It's been a pleasure."

He thanked her as best he could for all she had done and talked down her objections to being repaid. Now, he said, owing to her kindness he could walk the streets without being stared at and would lose no time in calling to his mother. Oh, he had plenty of money for that! And, smiling as if it were part of a huge joke, he showed what the payment of his small debt to the restaurant had left of his $8.

Seven dollars and a bit—nearly 30 shillings! Why, he was rich. All he asked now was a room in which to change his clothes.

As there was a howl of empty rooms, this request was easily granted, and presently Loveland came back to the kitchen suitably clad for daylight, except for the detail of his necktie. Isadora saw no fault in his appearance as he walked proudly at his side on the way to send a cablegram to Scotland.

Secretly Loveland would have been glad to dispense with her company, but she assured him that she had more time than anything else and that she would be delighted to guide him, only they "must not go past home, for if he saw her with a strange gentleman there'd be trouble."

Isadora peered over her companion's shoulder as he wrote out his message to his mother and was much interested in the address. "To save expense" he put only "Loveland, Dorloch, North Britain." Therefore the girl's curiosity was not greatly rewarded. All she could say to herself was that apparently he had some right to the name of Loveland and that he really did seem to expect that "somebody over there" might send him a remittance. Otherwise why should he waste good money on a cablegram and without a code too?

Unfortunately to make his need of money clear Val was obliged to write a long message, even though he attempted no elaborate explanation beyond saying, "Don't believe newspaper canards." When he had finished and did not see his way to striking out a single word he was vexed.

"If I saw HERED to find that there'd be trouble," he would have to pay $50. Still, his mother would instantly send the £50 he asked for, even if she had to borrow, and in a few hours this delicate situation would be ended.

With his evening clothes under his arm, Loveland found his way back to the flower, back to the flat hotel, back to his friend Bill, who was already in the reading room. And once again the name of "D. Gordon" figured prominently among the 150 lodgers for that night.

CHAPTER XIV.

THE MAN WHO WANTS

THEIR name no cablegram from Scotland next day. Loveland's mother did not answer his appeal. But Val tried to persuade himself that this was not strange. Perhaps she could not get together such a sum as he had asked for without a little delay, but she would send as soon as possible. He was as sure of that as he was sure that his present address ought to be first class, indeed.

The dollar which remained to him after settling his expensive cry across the sea was gone. He borrowed of Bill Willing, who offered and was delighted to lend. In a day or two at most, Loveland said, he would repay and planned to give Bill a handsome present as well. Meanwhile Loveland passed his time miserably between Alexander the Great's and the flat hotel or walking the streets in the desperate hope of seeing some English face he knew. He saw many pleasant faces, to whom no appeal of sorrow would be made in vain. But they were strangers' faces, and he was not a beggar yet.

Four days dragged by, including one ghastly Sunday, and when there was still no word from Lady Loveland Val began to feel the heavy conviction that none would ever come. Some awful spell had fallen upon him, it seemed, a curse which made him a pariah even for those who loved him best.

He thought over his past and realized that he had been selfish. Never before had it occurred to him to pity others beyond a "poor old chap, so sorry, don't you know," and a quick forgetting, but now he was filled with a dumb sympathy for every one who suffered.

Loveland did not always take his meals at Alexander's. Sometimes he let a meal time pass, too deeply depressed to be hungry, or if Bill Willing insisted on food for both there were places where it could be obtained even more cheaply than at Alexander the Great's—when Alexander himself and not Isadora was behind the counter.

Val had met the "boss" now, though not officially. While he had a few dimes and nickels in his pocket he patronized the restaurant, glad to have a glimpse of Isadora's friendly, pretty face and a chance to warm himself at the glowing stove. The "boss" regarded him as a client—a "queer cuss" down on his luck, but worth doing civil to, for in New York you never know how men's fortunes might change.

Nevertheless, Loveland realized that Alexander had as much real kindness of heart for the world in general as Rhylock or a tiger.

If you deserved to get on you got on and devil take the hindmost was Alexander's motto. But he loved and admired Isadora. His chief joy in piling up a fortune was for her future, that she might marry well and hand his name on for posthumous honors. He had already picked out the bridegroom, named Leo Cohen, who would, with Isadora, carry on the restaurant and its glory from generation to generation.

This was Alexander's dream, and was into him who should try to interfere with its fulfillment? But he had no fear of any such dangerous person even when Leo was away drumming up interest for a certain firm in the west and a tall, handsome, sulky looking young Englishman was dropping in every day for cheap food and a smile from Isadora.

On the fifth day the situation passed beyond bearing. Not only was Loveland penniless, but he could not bring himself to borrow more of Bill's pitiful nickels and hard earned dimes.

"Bill, I can't stand this any longer. I shall have to work or steal—anything but borrow more—until I can touch my money," Loveland broke out.

"It ain't easy to do either in New York," said Bill mildly.

"To think of my being practically reduced to starvation and nakedness with a letter of credit for a hundred and fifty pounds in my pocket!" groaned Val. "Do you think old Alexander would advance me anything if I told him my whole story?"

"Oh, I guess I wouldn't tell him the story," Bill advised hastily.

"Why not?"

"Well, he's got a sharp tongue, Alexander has."

"In England such a fellow could only get at me at all through my servants," "I suppose so," agreed Bill gently, "but this ain't England."

"I should think it wasn't, worse luck!"

"What's he been up to now?" partly demanded the voice of pa's fair daughter.

Isadora had come in while the two were so deeply occupied in conversation and the drops in their coffee cups that they had not seen her lift the curtain.

"Oh, nothing," replied the artist apologetically. "We was just talkin'."

"I was wondering if he would advance me anything, enough to get back to England with, on my letter of credit?" Loveland frankly explained.

"Oh, he wouldn't!" Isadora hastened to put that idea out of P. Gordon's mind once and forever. "He never trusted anybody yet, and he wouldn't begin with you. Why, he says his success in life comes from never believing anybody but himself. If a man tells him it's a nice day he goes to the window and peeks out before taking a walk without his umbrella. And he'd think 'twas like taking a walk in his best clothes when it rained cats and dogs to lend a furriner money."

"On a letter of credit?"

"I'm perfectly displeased that word 'credit'."

Loveland gave up hope of winning confidence and obtaining dollars from Alexander the Great. "This state of things is enough to make a man blow his brains out!" he exclaimed.

"I guess you need your brains now more than you ever did," suggested Bill, "and you couldn't get 'em put back where they belonged if everything came right directly they was out. What I think of when them ideas got to workin' in my head is the awful long time you have to stay dead, whether you're suited or not. It's a bad order to pawn your dress clothes and see what turns up."

Before Loveland could answer Isadora clapped her pretty hands, which were much cleaner than usual since P. Gordon had come into her daily life.

"Don't paven 'em!" she cried. "That's made me think of something. Pa's always talking about velle assets, or something like that. Well, your dress suit might be a velle asset if it's yours really sick of life when you can't pay your way. But are you dead sure you are sick of it?"

"Dead sure!" echoed Loveland. "What have you thought of for me to do?"

"You won't be mad if I tell you?"

"What nonsense! Am I in a position to be 'mad'—in the sense you mean—though it's a wonder I'm not mad in another sense? I'd sweep crowds if I could get the job or break stones if any one wanted them broken. But I suppose you're not going to suggest one of these employments, as evening clothes wouldn't be suitable to either."

"I was thinking," said Isadora, "that I might lease pa to take you in—Dutch's place if you'd care about it." "Good heavens! Be a waiter?" murmured Loveland. He had felt ready for any indignities, if paying work when in the abstract. But as soon as it took definite form—and such a form as this—

The Great Circus.

The Coliseum, itself as it was, was a mere toy in comparison with the Great Circus, which filled the valley between the Palatine and Aventine hills. The Coliseum is said to have been able to seat 50,000 people; while the seating capacity of the Great Circus was, at different periods, 150,000, 250,000, and lastly 350,000 spectators. The Great Circus was probably the most stupendous building ever erected for public spectacles.

The Mother's Duty.

A good woman knows the power she has of shaping the lives of her children, and she endeavors to use that power wisely and well. She teaches her boys and girls that they must be brave in doing their duty, truthful in speech and action, honest and honorable, kind, cheerful, and unselfish. By her own good example she enforces and illustrates what she teaches.

(2.) Why was it either a good or a bad custom, for the governor to release a criminal, to the Jews, at this feast?

(6.) What was the significance of the dream of Mrs. Pilate?

(8.) These chief priests were more kindly disposed to a thief, and a murderer, than they were to a good man, whom they regarded as a heretic; how do you account for this?

(9.) Why have we called heretics in the past been treated so cruelly? How are they treated today?

(10.) What motives prompted Pilate's desire to release Jesus?

(11.) Verses 22-24—What ought Pilate to have done with Jesus, without asking his persecutors?

(12.) How much credit, if any, should be accorded to Pilate for saying Jesus was a just man, and for wanting to release him?

(13.) Verse 25—A few days before this the people gave Jesus a royal welcome to the city and shouted, "Hosanna to the son of David," how do you account for their now wanting him to be crucified?

(15.) Verses 26-28—How do you estimate the character of Pilate, who, knowing Jesus to be a just man, condemns him to death to please the people?

(16.) Verses 29-33—What was their purpose in putting a crown of thorns on Jesus' head, putting on him a scarlet robe, and putting a reed in his hand?

(17.) Why did Jesus submit to all these cruel insults?

(18.) When have followers of Jesus, since then, had to suffer similar insults, and cruelty, and do they ever have to endure anything similar today?

(19.) Verse 31—Did they give Jesus the vinegar, mingled with gall, as an act of cruelty or mercy?

Lesson for Sunday, Dec. 18th, 1910. The Resurrection, Matt. xxviii:1-20.

Righteous Boys.

The aggressive rectitude of the modern English boy is noted, fostered, it may be, by boys' brigades and the scout movement. They stood at the train terminus, two scholars homeward bound. "What do you want to ride for?" asked one; "might just as well walk." With a stiff upper lip came the answer: "Mother gives me twopence a day for the tram fares. Must!" "I should walk and spend the money," was the temper's retort. "I couldn't do that," slowly pronounced the noble son of a noble mother; "It wouldn't be right, but—but—I take my penny tickets."

ABNORMAL APPETITES.

"The parents ate sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge." This suggests how the most deep-seated idiosyncrasies, often making intolerable the smallest portion of a certain food, may be established. But abnormal appetite, for a particular food, for a stimulant, or for an excessive amount of food—or insatiable appetite—may be established by irregular eating, by harboring an unnatural longing, unsatisfied, or by defective nutrition, during gestation. This knowledge, with the exercise of reasonable care and judgment, may prevent undesirable hereditary tendencies which a lifetime of effort cannot overcome—a fact which the unfortunate subject of such a legacy needs also to recognize, and the physician, as an aid to patience and the avoidance of extremes.

Higher Than Everest.

In his exploration of the Karakoram Doctor Longstaff found a vast wall of unknown peaks to the northeast of the Saltero pass. The highest of them, which he named Terma Kangri, he estimated, before taking his observations, as being over 25,000 feet high. Actual observations, when worked out, brought out the much higher figure of 28,200 feet. A second set of observations, however, taken from a more favorable station, showed the altitude as something like 30,000 feet; and as, according to the president of the Royal Geographical society, "Doctor Longstaff manipulated his observations so as to make the mountain appear lower than it otherwise would, a proceeding probably unique in mountaineering annals," there really is a strong presumption that Everest can be longer be regarded as highest.

Women in Holland Prisons.

There are now less than 200 women in the prisons of Holland, according to Dr. Simon von der Aa, who for 50 years has been the chief of administration of prisons in that country. "During my administration three prisons for women have been closed for lack of inmates," declared Dr. von der Aa. "There are two reasons for this decrease of criminal women. One is the growth of social work. There are societies without number not only to rescue the fallen but to help the poor and suffering. The other reason is simply the fact that women are allowed to work and support themselves honorably. I am convinced that the industrial freedom of women is keeping them out of prison in Holland."
